Cedarburg School District Launches Cedarburg Bulldog Nation

A new digital community gives school district the opportunity to better engage, connect with alumni and friends

CEDARBURG, Wis. — The Cedarburg School District has officially launched Cedarburg Bulldog Nation, a digital community that will allow it to better engage and stay connected with alumni and friends. The Bulldog Nation offers alumni and community members access to regular updates, volunteer opportunities and an alumni directory. The district will also provide information on news, updates and events throughout the year on its Bulldog Nation blog.

"We are excited to take this next step in increasing our engagement with our alumni through the Bulldog Nation," said Todd Bugnacki, superintendent of the Cedarburg School District. "Our school district is really an extended family, where current and past students can come together to celebrate shared achievements, long standing traditions and Cedarburg pride. Establishing such an association will allow our students to stay connected to the schools by engaging them in social activities, connecting alumni in their field of study, honoring an alumni person of the year, and offering a website as a gathering place; creating that web of support as graduates head into the next chapter of their career."

Alumni and supporters can sign up for and receive regular updates from Bulldog Nation. They can also choose to be listed in the community's directory and receive periodic email updates on district news and events, class reunions, local points of pride and Cedarburg alumni making a difference in the world. Additionally, alumni can learn more about how they can get involved and help current Cedarburg students.
